Armor-Clad Nest of South American Bird.

In the Argentine republic, says a writer in The Strand, where the summers are long and hot, it is customary to leave the windows open both day and night during the hottest part of the year.

A bird, taking advantage of this, proceeded to build a nest in my room, fixing it firmly to one of the Venetian blinds over the window. The eggs were duly hatched and the young birds fledged.

On taking down the empty nest, I found it to be practically armor-clad, the outer part being composed almost entirely of old, rusty nails woven in among the hay.

On counting the nails I found that no fewer than sixty-six had been used, besides some wire and pins taken from my dressing table. The bird was about the size of a robin and very tame.

Morgan at 70; Mills at 86.

Friends of J. P. Morgan, who met him at the meeting of the United States Steel corporation last Tuesday, remarked how well he looked, and certainly the world's premier banker appeared to be in splendid health. He left the meeting in great spirits and with an elastic step. Few men hold their age better. Yet Morgan is not very old. Frank West at 90 is 20 years his senior. D. C. Mills is 86, looks far younger and attends to business regularly. Not only that, his responsibilities are increasing. The other day he accepted the vice presidency of the Bank of New York-New York Letter to the Boston News Bureau.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment, and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy and the pain gradually abated, and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." For sale by Lee & Osgood Co.

Sideboards

A dining room without a Sideboard is much like a window without hangings—unfinished and unsatisfactory. It lacks the touch that gives the room the home atmosphere.

Our collection of Sideboard and Buffets is one of the largest in Eastern Connecticut, and our prices positively the lowest. Special prices on all Dining Room Furniture this week.

Mining Village Being Built of Concrete.

The industrial village of Mineville, N. Y., near Port Henry, is gradually being transformed from a collection of wooden shacks to one of imposing buildings of concrete. The village is near some rather extensive mines and is in the heart of what was once a great forest, but wood is now being supplanted for all purposes of building.

It should be stated that one of the factors that led to this extensive use of concrete was the possession by the company of a superior aggregate in the shape of the "tailings" or residue left after separation of the ore. An immense heap of these tailings gives a seemingly inexhaustible supply of aggregate and tests have proved that cement mixed with run tailings in the proportion of 1 to 5 produces a very superior concrete block without the addition of sand or gravel.

The buildings of concrete comprise a power station with a chimney, which is also of concrete, an office building which is approached by a series of concrete steps, a schoolhouse, fifty small houses for workmen, several four-family tenement-houses, foreign labor, and a number of more imposing houses for heads of departments, a lock-up and a paymaster's office. In fact at the present time there are but a few structures in the town which are built of anything but concrete.

Whale's Skeleton Eighty-seven Feet Long.

What is claimed as the largest animal in the world is represented by a colossal skeleton in the museum of Christchurch, New Zealand. This, says the London Globe, is the remains of a large specimen of the blue whale, stranded on the coast of that country. This whale is probably the largest of all living animals.

The length of the skeleton is eighty-seven feet, and the head alone is 21 feet. The weight of the bones is estimated at nine tons.

This gigantic whale gets its name of blue whale from the dark bluish-gray of its upper surface. The tinge of yellow on its lower part has led to the name, "sulphur bottom," by which it is known on the western side of the Atlantic. It is otherwise known as Sibbald's orqual (Ealenoptera sibbald).

The chief food of this gigantic animal is a small marine crustacean (Tryptanopoda inermis), known to the whalers as "krill." Another species of the same shrimp-like group has been obtained in thousands from the stomachs of mackerel caught on the Cornish coast.

The nearly related opossum shrimps, found in enormous numbers in the Greenland seas, form the chief food of the common whale. Some of the trypanopoda are phosphorescent and contribute to the luminosity of the sea.

Slew a Friend.

We shall not undertake to say the Koreans have not some reason for bitterness and hatred toward their Japanese masters. Japanese disappointment at being deprived of most of the fruits of their victory over Russia, through the Portsmouth treaty, has been said to explain the more or less rigorous course pursued by them in Manchuria, and if it operated to harden their hearts somewhat there, it would have the same effect upon them in Korea. But more than all else, Korea was subjected to an inpour of small traders and adventurers of the lower Japanese classes following the army of occupation, and it is not to be supposed that the natives received any very great consideration from this crowd. But Prince Ito—it was to him that the Koreans owed the relief which came to them from conditions of oppression and outrage. No until he arrived in that country did the situation begin to mend and the disorderly elements among the invaders to fall under measures of suppression.—Springfield Republican.

PERSONS TALKED ABOUT

The late M. Chauvart paid the sum of $160,000, $200,000, and $220,000 respectively for three of Millet's paintings.

Marguerite Gaudin, employed at an umbrella factory in Lancaster, Pa., sewed 4,025 buttons on umbrellas in 10 hours.

Mrs. Charles Natchez, of Chicago is the most heavily insured woman in the United States and probably in the world. Her estate will be paid $1,000,000 at her death.

The death of Gen. O. O. Howard leaves only two union corps commanders living, namely, Gen. J. P. Osterhaus, now residing in Germany, and Gen. Daniel R. Sickles.

The German empress has started many philanthropic organizations in Berlin, and one of the largest and most useful is known as the Central Association of German Actresses.

Wilkes-Barre proudly proclaims that it possesses the only woman policeman in Pennsylvania. She is Mrs. A. M. Berle, and the office of conservator of the peace came to her accidentally.

The widow of Gov. Johnson of Minnesota has received a letter of sympathy from Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who tells of the esteem in which the governor was held by the former president.

Mrs. Johanna Engelmann of Santa Monica, Cal., the first woman to do jury service in California, is tasting the fruits of fame. As a result she has announced that she is no longer a suffragette.

By resolution of the Vienna city fathers a plot has been set aside in St. Mark's cemetery for the Strauss family. The last of the family buried there were exhumed from another cemetery a few weeks ago.

Jack Bryant, 18 years old, secretary of the Mount Athletic club of Milwaukee, is seeking by "beating" his way around for a few years to get material for a novel, which he plans later to write illustrative of tramp life.

Pierce N. Welch, president of the First National bank of New Haven, died suddenly in a sanitarium in Berlin, Germany. He had been ill two weeks of pneumonia. The immediate cause of death was heart failure.

Mrs. William Sharp has completed the "Life and Letters" of her husband. It will be published next year. Before that time an edition of William Sharp's works will be brought out with illustrative drawings by D. Y. Cameron.

Prof. Thomas N. Carver of the department of economics at Harvard university suggests amendment of the Ten Commandments by cutting out the one relating to blasphemy and substituting one against overindulgence in strong drink.

Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science church, has contributed $1,000 to the fund for a new Young Men's Christian association building. The aim is to raise $500,000. Of this $234,112 has been obtained, an increase of $22,414 since Saturday.

Colonel James H. Fanning, who was a close friend of Captain Henry Wirz and was the principal witness for Wirz at his trial, died suddenly of heart failure on a street in Savannah. Colonel Fanning commanded the First regiment Georgia reserves, C. S. A., during the civil war.

Bernard Dernburg, German colonial secretary, who has been studying cotton-growing conditions in the United States with a view to introducing American methods in cotton growing in German South Africa, sailed for Germany from New York on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II.

William Owens, buried at Mill City, Wyoming county, had built for himself a coffin ten years ago, and made request that his grave be under an old hickory tree. After Owens' death the family placed the body in a modern casket and made interment in the cemetery. He was 85 years old.

A trade school for young women, endowed with $1,000,000, will soon be available to residents in Boston, as provided in the will of Frank B. Cotton of Brookline. An inventory of Mr. Cotton's estate shows an aggregate of $7,729,739. This is so invested that it will soon increase to $1,000,000.

Gov. Deneen is receiving many communications from persons who request that one thing or another be included in his call for a special session of the Illinois legislature. One of the most recent is from Lucy Page Gaston, who asks provision for the consideration of anti-cigarette legislation.

Arthur A. Belyea of Boston, a "poem" writer by election as well as by occupation, was hailed to the police station by a policeman minus literary tastes, charged with peddling without license. Poor Belyea was making a house-to-house canvass with his literary wares when the policeman held him up.

Miss Annie Morgan now wants the navy yard at Washington improved, especially in the way of lunch rooms, changes having been made under the direction of the National civic federation of women so successfully at other navy yards. Her plan contemplates the erection of a one-story building to seat 500.

Dr. John Morgan of Boston, who sold for $7,500,000 part of his copper mine holdings in the Island of Jamaica, has determined that his brother, Dr. E. B. Morgan of Paterson, N. J., who is in very moderate circumstances, shall share in his good fortune. The Boston man has offered his brother $1,000,000, which has been accepted.

Mrs. Johanna Engleman is the name of a lady at Santa Monica, Cal., who may have to serve on a jury of the superior court, as her name got into the jury box in some way and she was drawn. She says she could not send a man to jail for stealing a loaf of bread, and would probably hesitate to vote for hanging a man; so, if not declared ineligible, she may be declared incompetent to serve.

Chun Ling, a priest of Buddha, well versed in all of the mystic knowledge that is secreted in those mystic temples as much about the mysteries of the invisible world as Madame Blavatsky and her books could tell—perhaps more—is a student in the first grade of the Franklin school for foreigners, Washington.

Miss Laura Drake, chairman of the education committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, announces the conditions of the $1,500 scholarship at Oxford which the federation will award for the year beginning in 1910. Each state has the privilege of submitting a candidate, and in case of a tie the state which has contributed toward the scholarship will get the preference.
